MASKNE, Other Problems in the New Normal Era

14:48 / LPM CAMPUS

In the new normal era, everyone must wear a mask if they had an outside activity that interacts with other people. In fact, the latest World Health Organization (WHO) guidelines state that children aged 12 years and over are required to wear masks. However, for some people, frequently using masks actually causes problems on facial skin in the form of acne, which is known as Maskne. Maskne or mask acne is a pimple that forms in areas covered by a mask, such as the chin, nose, or lower cheeks. This is the new type of acne. Just like acne in general, maskne can interfere with the appearance and can leave annoying acne scars.

The growth of this acne will vary from person to person depending on the type of mask that they use. This can be illustrated in the following image:
